

Danger on the Building Site

Unfortunately not all building sites follow strict safety rules. The site drawn above holds many dangers for its workers and for anyone foolish enough to trespass on it. Can you point out every danger? Can you explain how to make the site safer?

Safer Building Sites

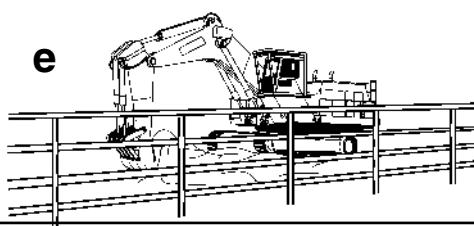

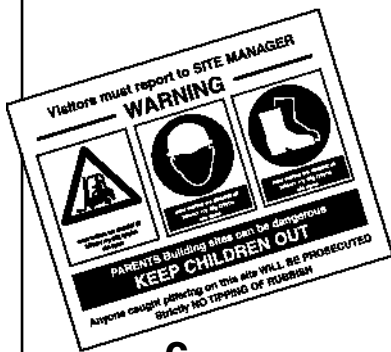

Every year people are killed or injured on building sites.

To prevent accidents, most building companies have lists of safety rules for their workers. Companies put up fences, put guards round machinery and make sure that everyone on the site wears the correct clothing.

Here are some pictures of safer building sites. How do you think the things in the pictures help to prevent accidents?

Building sites are not playgrounds. Steer Clear, Stay Safe.
